SECTION E (20 marks)
ENGLISH

17. Read the following passage carefully and then answer the questions that follow by writing the letter of the correct answer beside the item number in your answer booklet.

When Thomas Jefferson wrote in the American Declaration of Independence that "all men are created equal", he was not seeking to describe men's natural gifts, but their political and legal rights. He was saying that men do not differ from one another in the powers and sizes of their bodies, minds and characters. He was saying that, despite variations and difference, they all possessed the right to equal political and legal treatment. We must, however, ask of what real value are political and legal equality to a man who has no food to eat, no clothes to wear, no house for him, no chance to earn a livelihood.

What we understand as a democratic society must provide for its citizens the kind of political and legal treatment that preserves a person's minimum status as a member of that society, that keeps him from becoming a beggar, outcast or outlaw, and that offers him some protection in his deprivation, losses and fears.

In our times, the nations of the democratic world have introduced elaborate systems of social security and welfare, ranging from compensation for industrial accidents to subsidized housing, unemployment insurance, old age pensions, and national health services. It is encouraging that the democratic nations are making a serious effort to provide against the characteristic losses and disasters of human life.
